Inspiration

I've worked for Coast Capital Savings for nearly seven years, and I've always been amazed with what a difference Coast Capital makes in our communities. After hearing a presentation by the Young Leaders Community Council when I was at a branch, the message was even more clear: we are making a real difference and having a real impact. Lives are being changed because of the efforts of the Council and Coast Capital, and I wanted to be a part of that.

Fun Fact

Some people may know this already, but I have a Bachelor of Fine Arts degree and did a semester abroad in England.

What do you hope to achieve on the Council?

I'm looking forward to learning from my fellow Council members, and collaborating to help others, and learning more about the youth-serving organizations in our community.

What accomplishment are you most proud of to date?

The accomplishment I am most proud of to date is getting hired into the Marketing department at Coast Capital. When I started with the company I knew this is where I wanted to be, and I'm proud of myself for getting here.

Bio

Chelsea Lawrick holds a Bachelor of Fine Arts degree from Kwantlen Polytechnic University, and is currently working towards a certification in Online and Digital Marketing from the British Columbia Institute of Technology. When she isn't in class, Chelsea works as a Digital and Social Marketing Coordinator at Coast Capital Savings.

Having been with Coast Capital for over six years, Chelsea has a strong background in helping youth with their finances and wants to continue to help educate youth on financial well-being. In addition to her work and education, Chelsea has done volunteer graphic design work with Athletics for Kids, an organization that helps children get involved in sports activities. The organization aims to help children who come from families who may not be able to financially support them in their athletic endeavors.

Growing up with a brother with special needs, Chelsea saw that many youth in his environment were not always granted the same opportunities as their peers. As such, the desire to help remove barriers for youth who face the same challenges motivated Chelsea to join the Council.

She feels that being a part of the Metro Vancouver Council will give her the opportunity to help make that difference and she is very excited to bring her passion and expertise in digital marketing to the Council.

Outside of work and school Chelsea spends a lot of her spare time painting.
