Inspiration

I have always had a passion for giving back to my community and the Youth Get It Community Council gives me the perfect platform to not only give back to the community, but work with an amazing group of youth leaders.

Fun Fact

I am a distant cousin of Wyatt Earp. Earp was one of the famous figures to emerge from 19th century American history, aka the wild-wild west.

What do you hope to achieve on the Council?

Not only am I hoping to build strong relationships with my fellow Council members, but I also hope that we will be able to create a lasting impact in our community.

What accomplishment are you most proud of to date?

For the past five years, I have raised money and ran 60km in a single day to help build awareness for cancer and men's health issues. In 2016, we raised over $2,500.

Bio

Mitch has over nine years of experience in retail, commercial and business banking.

At Coast Capital, Mitch has held the role of Customer Service Representative, Financial Service Representative, Business Banking Officer, Manager, Small Business Banking, and most recently, Associate of Commercial Real Estate.

In this position, Mitch is responsible for analyzing lending applications and financial statements for both Business and Commercial Real Estate clients, skills that will be helpful in the Council's granting process.

In 2016, he was an active member of the Surrey Board of Trade's Business Excellence Awards committee. Within the committee, Mitch was responsible for selecting the winner of the Business Excellence Awards in the non-profit/association category.

Mitch has also been actively involved with the Surrey Youth Council, the Coast Capital Youth Get It Interns program, and Cloverdale Toastmasters.

He is confident that the knowledge he attained through these roles will benefit the Council and create a positive impact within the community.

In his spare time, Mitch enjoys hiking and loves to take in the beautiful scenery that British Columbia has to offer.
